Call for Papers

Conference Title: Religions, Texts, and Spaces: A Multidisciplinary and Multilingual Perspective

Conference Date: 18th and 19th December 2024

Location: Seminar Room, Shaikh ul Aalam Centre for Multidisciplinary Studies, University of Kashmir

Submission Deadline: 10th December 2024 (Abstract Submission)

16th December 2024 (Full Paper Submission for Selected Participants)

Conference Overview:

The conference titled Religions, Texts, and Spaces invites scholars and researchers across disciplines to explore the intersections between religion, textual expression, and spatial context. This conference seeks to foster a rich, multilingual conversation on how religious thought, practices, and beliefs manifest and are interpreted through texts, material spaces, and environments. The conference is interdisciplinary and welcomes perspectives from fields such as theology, religious studies, history, anthropology, linguistics, philosophy, literature, political science, cultural studies, and more. The conference is also multilingual and accepts submissions in English, Urdu, Kashmiri and Hindi.

Themes and Topics:

The conference will cover a broad range of topics, including but not limited to:

- Textual Interpretations of Religious Spaces: Studies on how sacred texts shape and transform spaces, rituals, and practices in various cultural contexts.
- Multilingual Approaches to Sacred Texts: Analysis of the role and impact of multilingualism in the interpretation and translation of religious texts.
- Religious Identity and Space: Examination of how religious identity is shaped, negotiated, and expressed within public, private, and contested spaces.
- Religious Texts, Spaces and Gender: Exploration of ways in which gender relations ordained in religious texts determine gender relations in a society and access to religious spaces
- Comparative Religious Studies: Comparative approaches examining shared themes across religious texts, doctrines, or spatial practices.
- Literary and Textual Analysis: Analysis of sacred and religious texts using diverse methodological approaches (e.g., linguistic, semiotic, hermeneutic).
- Oral Traditions and Religious Experience: Engaging with the role of memory and community in disseminating religious and spiritual traditions, especially the questions of authenticity and reliability.
